McCullough: Pandemic Won't End Until Mass Vaccination Stops

Research published in ACS Infectious Diseases shows mass vaccination against COVID-19 is backfiring as SARS-CoV-2 readily mutates and thrives in the vaccinated.

A principle of infectious diseases is "antimicrobial stewardship" which involves choosing the right antibiotic for the right patient and never over-prescribing or blanket-covering patients who don't need treatment.

Another principle is "narrowing the spectrum" of a drug once the organism is identified by culture or other methods.

These fundamental approaches to the use of antibiotics work to limit the problem of bacterial resistance and the development of "superbugs."

Every year hospitals each produce their antibiogram or report of their common infections encountered and what antibiotics either are effective (organism is sensitive) or ineffective (organism is resistant).

In the SARS-CoV-2 pandemic, these principles have been applied to the use of monoclonal antibodies and the process explains why various EUA products (e.g., bamlanivimab) were pulled from the market when they were understood to be no longer effective at neutralizing SARS-CoV-2.

This entire thought process has been thrown out the window for COVID-19 vaccines. For 18 months the ancestral strain Wuhan Institute of Virology spike protein was the featured antigen for Pfizer, Moderna, Janssen, AstraZeneca and Novavax vaccines.

Within a few months, there was mounting evidence that SARS-CoV-2 easily mutated to escape the reach of antibodies generated by the vaccines which would apply to serious invasive illness (IgG and IgM).

Because the COVID-19 vaccines have never been demonstrated to neutralize SARS-CoV-2 in the nasopharynx, the only theoretical benefit would be for systemic disease.

It has now become apparent that nature has the upper hand over the vaccine manufacturers as SARS-CoV-2 has far greater alacrity.

Because replication can allow changes in genetic code that rapidly allow continued survival, SARS-CoV-2 enjoys a library of ~28k mutations of which ~4.5K are in the receptor binding domain of the spike protein or the tip of the spike.

Emerging Vaccine-Breakthrough SARS-CoV-2 Variants

ACCESS
ABSTRACT: The surge of COVID-19 infections has been fueled by new SARS-CoV-2 strains, namely Alpha, Beta, Gamma, Delta, and so forth. The molecular mechanism underlying such surge is elusive due to the existence of a large mutation number (~30) in the coronavirus genome, especially in the spike protein. Understanding the molecular mechanism of SARS-CoV-2 transmission and evolution is a prerequisite to boost the trend of emerging vaccine-breakthrough variants. Here, we report a study of SARS-CoV-2 mutational individuals. We integrate the genotyping of 1 457 000 SARS-CoV-2 genomes, a library of 130 known antibodies, tens of thousands of experimental binding affinities between SARS-CoV-2 variants and antibodies, and deep mutational learning to construct feature-based ensemble models. We find that the vaccine-induced humoral immunity is likely to be ineffective to the vaccine-inclusive mutations. We illustrate that infectivity strengthening mutations tend to occur at the sites with weakened immunity. We demonstrate that Lambda is an infectious Delta but is more vaccine-resistant. We analyze emerging vaccine-breakthrough mutations in highly vaccinated countries, including the United Kingdom, the United States, Denmark, and so forth. Finally, we suggest that the Lambda (L452Q, F490S), Delta (T19R, L452R, T478K), Mu (T95I, Y144S, Y145N, R346K, N501T), and Zeta (E71TR, D614G, N501T) variants may produce their own escape mutations. We foresee an urgent need to develop new virus-combating strategies.
KEYWORDS: COVID-19, SARS-CoV-2, vaccine-breakthrough, vaccine-resistant, mutation

Rui Wang and colleagues, using detailed modeling techniques of the mutations prevalent in the more intensely vaccinated countries, have shown indeed mass vaccination is backfiring and fueling more viral resistance to the limited antibody library that could be generated by the vaccines.

Wang's analysis suggests that future vaccine development against SARS-CoV-2 is hopeless. The virus is simply too nimble and can manipulate the "binding free energy" between the RBD and its human target the ACE2 receptor.

This means the more vaccinations are delivered the greater the number of mutant stains and the longer the virus will propagate and extend the pandemic.

Thus, a key step in ending the pandemic will be termination of mass vaccination. The virus doesn't stop until mankind stops.

It seems that more people 'die suddenly' for 'unknown reasons' than from just covid.

YES. I have noticed this significantly lately; especially with younger people (under 50) ... every time I see "still investigating" or an unknown cause, I immediately presume they have taken the 'vaccine'. I feel it will ramp up over the coming months and years ... so sad.

Not to mention the even more effective drug-free Brownstein nutritional and oxidative early treatment protocol, which has been almost completely buried, and upon which I based my home treatment protocol that got me over it easily. Zero long COVID cases among his 107 patients, several of whom had been hospitalized, as of the time of publication. https://www.publichealthpol...
A friend of mine had a serious case, and got very rapid improvement from IV vitamin C. No drugs are needed in a vast, vast majority of cases.

More people are saying NO! to the vax - and as more say no, it will lose steam completely. But we must say NO!

Which makes sense to me. No, I didn't have any medical training, but I don't see how the unvaccinated could offer any resistance to the virus.
The vaccinated, on the other hand would offer resistance and cause the virus to mutate.
Yes, that's only an opinion, but free speech supports opinions.

"Pandemic Won't End Until Mass Vaccination Stops"
We would respectively submit an amendment, more powerful, - even necessary for communicating the unprecedented gravity of the ongoing global situation, to acknowledge at this late (3 long years on) date - article title
"Unnecessary Mass Deaths and Severe Injury Won't End Until Mass Vaccination Stops"
At this later stage of a continuing crimes against humanity operation, it seems reasonable to suggest people mark their gloves off and fight for humanity and future generations, to end this seemingly unstoppable, deadly criminal nightmare.

One question I'd like to put to Dr McCullough is: 'Can you provide proof that SARS Cov-2 exists, and if so, can you please provide documentary evidence that it has been isolated anywhere on earth, preferably from multiple sources?
All freedom of Information Requests [FOIA] to every country they've been put to, to prove SARS Cov-2 exists, have returned negative results. Zero positive responses. Mike Adams tried to purchase lab samples of SARS Cov-2 for his lab, reference samples for comparison, but couldn't find a source anywhere on earth that could provide SARS Cov-2 lab reference samples. You'd think every nation on earth that is testing people for SARS Cov-2 would have reference samples for comparison to prove or disprove infection, would you not? Especially for a disease purportedly so dangerous and lethal.
The "SARS Cov-2 RT-PCR test was calibrated against a concoction of flu, common cold, human cells (), coronavirus and adenovirus and other fragments, by Christian Drosten Ph.D. That is fraud on a scale previously unheard of resulting in millions dead, decapacitated, injured, and disabled, businesses destroyed, economies bankrupted, creation of vaccine dictatorships, psychological damage, mass formation, a bottomless pit of consequences while the perpetrators (like Drosten, Schwab, Gates, Fauci, Collins, Bourla, Walensky, Clinton, Biden et al) made themselves obscenely rich. Could it be that in reality, we're looking at world-wide envenomation disguised as a "virus?" Can that be denied? Like there's no absolute, definitive proof that SARS Cov-2 actually exists, if it did we'd have Koch's or Pive's postulates proven in labs world-wide, nation by nation as confirmation. Where is that confirmation? It doesn't exist. – G

None of the official medical politicos have paid any attention to this paper, that is dated October 2021 - more than one year old !
Dr. Geert Vander Bossche was saying the same even much earlier, that vaccination during pandemic is a pure madness. Yet we are still being pushed , here or there, to get dreadful jabs.

Let's hope the worst of Geert's predictions (a strain with greater virulence as well as contagion) does not come to pass.

If we had proper health care, Dr. McCullough would be surgeon general, and Fauci in prison.

It's the pandemic of the vaccinated. Without the consent of the governed, these evil doers lose their power and control. Mass noncompliance is only part one of the answer, along with getting out of the conformist mindset.
FRAUD: Stew Peters used footage from 2019 heart surgery in "Died Suddenly" documentary, cut Dr. Jane Ruby from film https://www.naturalnews.com...
This is at the 52 min. mark. https://stopworldcontrol.co...
The Covid Blog is certainly more credible than controlled opposition Stew Peters. Notice how the Covid Blog are censored by Twitter, while other channels are promoted? Question everything!

Yes, this Documentary was rushed with several errors to create sensationalism and made it easier for those pro-vaxx to discredit this documentary. Vaxxed and Vaxxed II documentaries were better and made people think and question everything.
Months ago, Peters did the "Watch the Water" linked to Snake Venom Theory in the water supply documentary of why people tested positive for Covid, that led people to believe in the narrative and the testing. Only to find out it was based on theory and what scientists are using snake venom for other drugs and shots, but the water supply was in certain areas

Stew Peters may be a schill too, i think Destret, Malone, vanden Bosche all are , among others. C.O. most likely.
ALL " covid measures" around the world , have been nothing but anti-health. ALL based on lies and pure tyranny.
the C-shots are obviously working- to continue this destruction of lives.
